

Calling All Bounty Hunters!

A large group of wanted criminals, scalawags, murderers and horse thieves escaped last week when the sheriff's stagecoach transporting them to the Federal Prison in Olympia overturned.

These men and women have scattered throughout Pacific County, Washington Territory and should be considered armed and dangerous! Help get them BEHIND BARS!

You'll find their last known whereabouts on this newfangled thing, the internet, at sumthin' called a website. Look for [CDS3] after their names for the whole list. Do not attempt to capture these wanted criminals! Instead, look for their badge numbers on a painted wooden nickel inside what the sheriff is calling a geocache, whatever the heck that is. If you can track down at least 20 of these scalawags -- any of 'em are fair game -- bring this completed bounty hunter card to the Long Beach Visitor Information Center to be rewarded with your trackable geocoin -- a old-fangled replica jail cell complete with ball and chain. You can find their location and hours at www.funbeach.com Now, giddy-up!
